

Build a Traditional Dry Stone Wall

Have you ever seen...

those graceful stone walls that lace the fields of Ireland and Scotland?

Did you wonder...

how they remained standing for hundreds of years, without mortar?

You can learn...

Alton Mill Celtic Fest

March 20 from 9 am to 5 pm

Workshop participants will help build a basic, traditional Celtic dry stone wall (when we're not eating, drinking and enjoying the live music, original art, spoken word and dance performances in a spectacular natural setting...)

- cost of the workshop is $100
- includes a hot lunch
- ride sharing available

The Alton Mill is 35 minutes west of Guelph in beautiful Caledon
